PREVIEW SERVICES ACHIEVES ISO 27001:2005 CERTIFICATION

Preview Services, one of the UK's leading document scanning and document archiving companies, is pleased to announce that the company has attained 27001:2005 certification for information security management.

Together with the general ISO 9001:2008 for quality management systems and ISO 14001:2004 for environmental management systems that it had previously attained, Preview now holds all three of the key ISO standards, demonstrating its commitment and ability to achieve the highest standards of quality across all its operations and systems.

The ISO 27001:2005 standard requires that an organisation has implemented comprehensive information security controls to address any potential information security risks in its systems. They also require the implementation of a management process to ensure that these controls continue to meet the organisation's information security needs on an ongoing basis. The ISO 27001 certification is demonstration of Preview's firm stance on data security, with that of their clients' data being of the very highest priority.

Preview has long been a champion of quality systems, having achieved ISO 9001 certification for a number of years. The addition of the other ISO standards has been an important process alongside other internal initiatives, with environmental standards and information security management being the two prime areas of focus.

"The maintenance and continuing development of systems to ensure the adherence to these standards is an ongoing job," stated Ellis Mugridge, Sales and Marketing Director at Preview. "However, the achievement of this trio of certifications is an important point in the process and one of which the company feels justifiably proud."
